

Former places of worship in the Diocese of Southwark

BATTERSEA, ST MARY-LE-PARK (2)

Ref: BAT13

Status	still used for worship (not Anglican)
Borough	Wandsworth
Present parish	BATTERSEA, ST MARY
Built	1970
Build architect	David Cole

Further information	A mixed use building, which replaced the earlier St Mary's (BAT12), the church part being consecrated. To the west of the church is the former vicarage. The foundation stone was laid by Earl Spencer. Roughly 49ft square in plan with irregular projections from the sides, the church is placed above a hall with ancillary rooms, and is approached by a flight of steps on the west side. The walls are built of dark grey-brown brick, and the flat roof is covered with bitumen and chippings. A fuller description is available in the CCC report. It closed for worship in 1989 and was declared redundant in 1991. The building was sold in 1994, with most of the contents, to the Philippino Pentecostal Church of Christ (still in this use as at 2005). There is a file in the Diocesan Pastoral Department archives for this parish, containing among other items: the 1966 Bill for the demolition of the original church and the building of the new one; the Act of Consecration (1970); a survey of parish records (later deposited at the LMA), 1987; the last quinquennial inspection report (1988); and a history of the parish by Rev P.L. Law, 1989.
